Dear Friends,

Greetings from the faculty, students, and administrative staff of Mid-America Reformed Seminary!

Mid-America Reformed Seminary is wholeheartedly committed to the gospel of Jesus Christ, the truthfulness of the Word of God, and the biblical riches of the Reformed and Presbyterian confessions. Our mission is to provide the best training possible for students who are preparing for gospel ministry in the church of Jesus Christ. Such training includes not only theological formation but also spiritual formation that develops the student’s character and gifts for the work of the ministry. It aims to prepare students to communicate the gospel of Jesus Christ effectively in an increasingly secular culture. Mid-America also welcomes ministers and lay people seeking to enhance their practical ministry through continuing education or their theological knowledge through certification. Our curriculum stresses the classical disciplines of original language study, exegesis, doctrinal studies, the history of the church, and pastoral theology. Only as students are equipped to open up and apply the riches of God’s Word to all of life will they be able to equip God’s people for service. In order to fulfill our purpose to train our students for the gospel ministry, we have designed our curriculum and Ministerial Apprenticeship Program to ensure that they have ample opportunities to cultivate their gifts.

If you would like to learn more about us, please call or email us for further information. Better yet, if you are able, visit our campus on the south side of the Chicago area. By visiting with our professors, attending class, conversing with students, and attending our chapel exercises, you will experience firsthand the community which is Mid-America Reformed Seminary.

Cordially in Christ,

Cornelis P. Venema, Ph.D.
President, Mid-America Reformed Seminary
Welcome to the academic catalog of Mid-America Reformed Seminary! Consider this your guided tour to the Seminary.

Our institution was founded in 1981 in northwest Iowa by a group of supporters who believed strong, biblical preaching from a Reformed confessional commitment was necessary for the well being of the church. This emphasis required a close connection between seminary instruction and the life of the local church.

In 1997 we moved to Dyer, Indiana. Our campus in this northwest Indiana town is easily accessible from anywhere in the Chicago area and is about forty-five minutes from downtown Chicago. Our location provides the opportunities of one of America’s great cities.

Dyer is primarily a residential community with affordable housing for students and their families. Dyer and nearby towns are also home to many Reformed and Presbyterian churches who have close relationships with the seminary and are quick to welcome Mid-America students and their families into their fellowships.

The Seminary’s thirty-acre campus features an attractive and practical 17,000 square foot facility with classrooms, offices, chapel, library, cafeteria, and student lounge.

PURPOSE
Our purpose is to prepare pastors for gospel ministry in confessional Reformed and Presbyterian churches and to train others to serve in various Christian venues.

That purpose becomes clear in a curriculum designed to develop our Master of Divinity students intellectually, pastorally and spiritually. Our instructors provide a thorough instruction in God’s Word and a solid grounding in the Bible’s essential doctrines. Practical theology courses and our Ministerial Apprenticeship Program (page 41) develop our students’ pastoral skills. And our close, supportive community encourage the spiritual maturity of our students.

Students enrolled in our Masters of Theological Studies program also enjoy the benefits of this well developed purpose. We are committed to providing solid theological and practical training to others whose vocational intention is not pastoral ministry but would benefit from a robust theological education.

DOCTRINAL POSITION
All members of the faculty, the Mid America Seminary Association, and the Mid America Board of Directors are wholeheartedly committed to the Holy Scriptures as the infallible and inerrant Word of God and affirm that the Reformed Confessions faithfully set forth the system of truth taught in Scripture. In conformity to the Scriptures, we are also committed to the ecumenical creeds of Christendom (the Apostles’, Athanasian, and Nicene Creeds) and to the following Reformation Confessions: the Belgic Confession, the Heidelberg Catechism, the Canons of Dort, and the Westminster Confession of Faith.

FOCUS
Our purpose and doctrinal position shape every aspect of our students’ training.

We believe faithfulness to the gospel requires that a seminary prepare its ministerial students to proclaim that gospel fearlessly and faithfully.

We also believe students must be thoroughly trained in all areas of theology...including the history and doctrinal developments of the church throughout the centuries that reflect the depth and diversity of Reformed thought.

And we believe our students must be trained to minister in our culture. They must know the strengths and weaknesses of time so they are equipped to minister to those both inside and outside the church.
This sharpness of focus and breadth of training are not contradictory. We believe they are necessary for a vigorous and well balanced preparation for service in Christ’s church.

STATEMENT OF EDUCATIONAL EFFECTIVENESS

Mid-America Reformed Seminary is committed to effective education and preparation for the gospel ministry. As a measure of educational effectiveness, since 1985, 94% of Mid-America graduates in the Master of Divinity program have successfully sustained theological examination by their churches and were ordained to undertake work in gospel ministry. Since Mid-America’s Master of Theological Studies program is not designed to have a clearly defined vocational purpose, Mid-America does not track vocational outcomes for MTS students.

RELATIONSHIP TO THE CHURCH

We are thankful to serve a variety of confessionally Reformed and Presbyterian churches. We are not, however, governed by any particular denomination. We believe this relationship with a variety of churches emphasizes a proper confessional ecumenicity and enhances our students’ education both inside and outside of the classroom.

Students seeking ordination in a particular denomination will coordinate their study at Mid-America Reformed Seminary with that denomination’s eligibility requirements for ministerial candidacy. We make every effort to incorporate courses and preparation required by particular denominations. In particular, the Ministerial Apprenticeship Program (page 41) is shaped to prepare students to enter ministry in their denomination.
Students and alumni of Mid-America Reformed Seminary consistently rate their relationships with the professors as one of our seminary’s greatest strengths. Each faculty member has the scholarship expertise and pastoral sensitivity to provide a comprehensive and integrated theological education.

Our professors at Mid-America serve as mentors for our students. This mentoring includes counseling and small group fellowship. Each student has a faculty advisor who functions as the student’s counselor. The Registrar, Dean of Students, and Director of Enrollment Management take an appropriate and active interest in academic and personal concerns. One morning each week faculty members meet with the students assigned to their care for a time of mentoring and prayer. Our faculty members, individually and collectively, also spend time praying each week for our students and their families.
With many years in the pastorate, Dr. Beach brings an abundance of practical experience to the classroom. He served two churches before coming to the seminary. Dr. Beach earned his Ph.D. in Reformation and Post-Reformation Reformed Theology. He applies these studies to the two academic disciplines in which he principally labors, namely, ministerial and doctrinal studies. He believes that Reformed and Presbyterian churches greatly benefit from exploring and rediscovering the rich heritage of the Reformed tradition. He also believes the church’s proclamation of the gospel must be contemporary, as pastors study the Scriptures and address the challenges and needs of our times in a direct manner. Dr. Beach regularly preaches in area churches, has written study materials for youths and adults, translated a book on baptism, as well as being the author of numerous scholarly articles. He has published number of books including a major work on Francis Turretin’s theology of the covenant Dr. Beach is the managing editor of and frequent contributor to the Mid-America Journal of Theology.
Professor Compton is a minister in the United Reformed Churches in North America and pastored Christ Reformed Church (Anaheim, CA) before coming to Mid-America.

After graduating from Dordt College, Professor Compton taught high school band and orchestra before attending seminary at Westminster Seminary California. After seminary he studied at the Claremont Graduate University and then the University of California, Los Angeles where he completed doctoral coursework before completing a M.A. He has also studied pastoral counseling at Westminster Theological Seminary.

Professor Compton has taught and lectured at UCLA in the department of Near Eastern Languages and Cultures, has delivered papers at regional meetings of the Evangelical Theological Society and the Society of Biblical Literature, and has contributed articles to the New Interpreters Dictionary of the Bible and the Lexham Bible Dictionary. He has also written articles for The Outlook, and reviews for Westminster Theological Journal, Calvin Theological Journal, and Themelios. Rev. Compton is also a co-editor of the Mid-America Journal of Theology.

Professor Compton is a member of the Evangelical Theological Society, the National Association of Professors of Hebrew, the Society of Biblical Literature, and the American Schools of Oriental Research.
Dr. Mininger is a minister in the Orthodox Presbyterian Church. In addition to his labors at the Seminary, he also serves as associate pastor of New Covenant Community Church (OPC) in Joliet, IL and as vice-chair of the OPC Presbytery of the Midwest’s Committee on Candidates and Credentials.

Prior to coming to Mid-America, Dr. Mininger taught at Princeton Theological Seminary, St. Joseph’s University (PA), and Westminster Theological Seminary. He has spoken for various scholarly and popular conferences and contributed articles to periodicals such as Mid-America Journal of Theology, Princeton Seminary Bulletin, Sapientia, Koinonia, and New Horizons. Recently he published a book with Mohr Siebeck entitled, Uncovering the Theme of Revelation in Romans 1-3: Discovering a New Approach to Paul’s Argument. He has also enjoyed teaching and preaching at Reformed churches across the country.

Dr. Mininger is a member of the Evangelical Theological Society and the Society of Biblical Literature.
Professor Strange served Providence Orthodox Presbyterian Church in Glassboro, New Jersey, for over nine years before coming to Mid-America. He is an associate pastor at New Covenant Community Church (OPC) in Joliet, Illinois, frequently preaching there or speaking in other church and conference settings.

Dr. Strange is active in the Presbytery of the Midwest and serves on or chairs various OPC committees, including the Committee on Appeals and Complaints, the Psalter Hymnal Special Committee, the Committee on Christian Education and the Board of Trustees of Great Commission Publications. He served as chairman of the Committee on Creation Views and as vice-chairman of the Justification Committee, producing substantial reports for both of those study committees. He teaches the course for the Ministerial Training Institute of the OPC on the Form of Government and has written extensively on church polity. He also served as the Moderator of the 75th OPC General Assembly (2008), and as general editor of the Trinity Psalter Hymnal (2018).

Professor Strange has been a frequent contributor to the OPC denominational magazines New Horizons and Ordained Servant, and to the Mid-America Journal of Theology. He has also written for and serves as a contributing editor to The Confessional Presbyterian. He has recently published The Doctrine of the Spirituality of the Church in the Ecclesiology of Charles Hodge (P&R), and The Imputation of the Active Obedience of Christ at the Westminster Assembly (RHB). He is a member of the Evangelical Theological Society, the Conference on Faith and History, and the American Society of Church History.
Professor Vander Hart pastored the Christian Reformed Church of La Glace-Grande Prairie, Alberta, Canada, from 1980 to 1983. He continues to take an active interest in the life of the local church as well as the international church. He frequently preaches in local congregations and leads Bible studies for several church societies. He has written several Bible studies; Genesis 1-11, Jacob (Genesis 25-49), and Joseph & Judah. Professor Vander Hart has also ministered to the international Reformed community, teaching within Southeast Asian populations in the United States as well as teaching in Cyprus, Ukraine, Myanmar, Latvia, India, and Armenia. He is a member of the following missions committees: Reformed Faith & Life (Armenian and French), Christ for Myanmar Mission Committee, and the International Theological Education Ministries, Inc. (ITEM).

Professor Vander Hart has contributed articles for the Mid-America Journal of Theology, The Outlook, Christian Renewal, and Biblical Horizons.

He is a member of the Society for Biblical Literature, the Evangelical Theological Society, the Calvin Studies Society, and the National Association of Professors of Hebrew.
While studying at Princeton Theological Seminary from 1979-1981, Dr. Venema was a Teaching Fellow in the Department of Theology. He served as pastor of the Christian Reformed Church of Ontario, California, for six years before coming to Mid-America.

Dr. Venema serves as President of the Seminary in addition to teaching systematic theology. He has served as an elder in his church and preaches on a regular basis. Dr. Venema also speaks and teaches in a variety of church and conference settings.

His special interest lies in Reformation theology, particularly the work of the Reformers John Calvin and Heinrich Bullinger. Dr. Venema’s books, Heinrich Bullinger and the Doctrine of Predestination: Author of “The Other Reformed Tradition”? and Accepted and Renewed in Christ: The “Twofold Grace of God” and the Interpretation of Calvin’s Theology, reflect this interest. He is the author of several other books including But for the Grace of God: An Exposition of the Canons of Dort; What We Believe: An Exposition of the Apostles’ Creed; The Promise of the Future; Getting the Gospel Right; Children at the Lord’s Table?, Christ and the Future, The Gospel of Free Acceptance in Christ, By His Spirit and Word: How Christ Builds His Church, The Lord’s Supper and the ‘Popish Mass’, Christ and Covenant Theology, Chosen in Christ: Revisiting the Contours of Predestination.

Dr. Venema is a co-editor and frequent contributor to The Outlook and the Mid-America Journal of Theology.

Academic Programs

Mid-America Reformed Seminary offers two degree programs: the Master of Divinity (M.Div.) and the Master of Theological Studies (M.T.S.). Because Mid-America focuses on preparing students for the gospel ministry, the primary degree program offered at Mid-America is the Master of Divinity degree program.

A student not enrolled in either the Master of Divinity program or the Master of Theological Studies program is classified as a Non-Degree Student and is not required to meet some entrance and course prerequisites.

Master of Divinity

The Master of Divinity (M.Div.) degree program prepares students for the ordained gospel ministry as pastors, chaplains, missionaries, and evangelists. Because the seminary board and faculty believe Scripture limits the roles of official teaching and leadership in the church to qualified men, only men are admitted to the Master of Divinity program.

Admission Requirements

To qualify for admission to the Master of Divinity program the applicant must be a dedicated Christian who has earned a Bachelor of Arts degree or its equivalent, with a grade point average of 2.67 (B-) or higher. Applicants who fall below this average may be admitted, but the Registrar will review their seminary academic work on a regular basis. Applicants without Bachelor of Arts degrees are evaluated on an individual basis.

In preparation for theological study, the following majors are deemed particularly valuable: classical languages, English, history, and philosophy. Two years or four courses of ancient Greek, or their equivalent, are beneficial, prior to beginning seminary studies, and students are encouraged to study New Testament Greek as part of their program of college courses. The Seminary does, however, provide the necessary courses in New Testament Greek for students who have not completed the Greek sequence. (Four courses in ancient and New Testament Greek are a prerequisite for obtaining the M.Div. degree, see page 78.)

Courses in the following areas are recommended: courses in the humanities, including two semester length courses each in English (including grammar and composition), history (including classical history), and philosophy (including a survey of ancient philosophy and modern philosophy); two years (four courses) of Greek; two courses in natural science; two courses in social science; two courses in public speaking.

Mid-America recognizes that an increasing numbers of students are seeking the Master of Divinity degree after spending some time in another vocation. These students have likely not followed a traditional pre-seminary track of college education and may need special instruction to better prepare themselves for seminary study. We works closely with these students to prepare them for theological study.

A limited number of students who have not earned a B.A. degree, but whose life experience suggests that they would be suitable M.Div. students, may apply for the M.Div. program. The following courses are strongly recommended for such non-B.A. students: two college-level English courses, one of which must include grammar and composition; two college-level history courses, one of which must include classical history; two college-level philosophy courses, one of which must provide a survey of ancient philosophy; and four college-level courses, which should be biblical or Koiné Greek courses.

If a student’s performance in the academic areas specified above has been deficient, either in course selections or grades, the faculty may require additional work. This will be done through agreement the student and the faculty.

A student’s transcript will be evaluated on its own merits. Competency examinations may be offered to those who have covered certain areas of theological study in their college work. For more information on the application process, see page 54. This process should be completed before May 1 of the first year of study.
GRADUATION REQUIREMENTS
A student must possess a cumulative grade point average of 2.67 (B-) or higher over the course of the seminary program to receive the Master of Divinity (M.Div.) degree. 101 semester hours are required for the degree, in addition to which ten credit hours required by the Ministerial Apprenticeship Program.

No student, however, may take more than eighteen academic hours a semester without permission from the registrar.

Before graduating, a student must meet all financial obligations to the seminary or make suitable arrangements to meet them. No transcripts will be sent until financial obligations have been met.

COMPREHENSIVES
In addition to fulfilling course and MAP requirements, a student seeking the Master of Divinity degree must sustain a written comprehensive examination in Bible knowledge as well as an oral comprehensive examination conducted by members of the faculty to determine the student's competency in theology.

The Bible knowledge examination tests a student's ability to work with biblical data. In a multiple-choice format, it determines the student's knowledge of some detailed and specific information about biblical texts, geography, backgrounds, and people. This Bible knowledge exam is typically completed by the end of the first year of study.

The oral comprehensive examination is devoted largely to theology and confessional knowledge, with the other fields (biblical, historical, ministerial, and apologetical) ancillary to and supportive of the theology questions.

While the examination is aimed at determining academic competency, the experience helps prepare the student for oral examinations about his orthodoxy that will be conducted by his classis or presbytery before he is permitted to enter the ministry.

After students have completed 68 or more hours of academic study, they will ordinarily be eligible to take the oral theological exam. Therefore this exam is typically offered at the beginning of the last semester of the student’s course of study.

GREEK LANGUAGE STUDIES
The Greek language requirements at Mid-America entail competency in: 1) basic Greek grammar as covered in a standard textbook, such as J. G. Machen’s New Testament Greek for Beginners or W. D. Mounce’s Basics of Biblical Greek; 2) intermediate Greek grammar and syntax like that covered in D. Wallace’s Greek Grammar Beyond the Basics or Richard Young’s Intermediate New Testament Greek; 3) knowledge of vocabulary occurring 15 times or more in the New Testament, and; 4) reading and analyzing the Greek of the New Testament.

This requirement can be satisfied in one of several ways: 1) taking Greek courses at Mid-America, described further below; 2) taking courses at another institution determined by the registrar to cover the areas of competency described above; or 3) demonstrating competency in the areas described above by taking a Greek placement exam from Mid-America. Students may satisfy some or all of the Greek requirements through the Greek placement exam. The ordinary deadline for taking the Greek Placement Exam is June 1 so arrangements for summer Greek through the seminary can be made. Arrangements to take the placement exam are scheduled through the registrar’s office.

The Seminary provides four courses of instruction in ancient (Koiné) Greek for those who have not previously taken Greek: Greek 101, 102, 201, and 202. Greek 101-102 are offered as intensive courses during the summer. These classes meet several hours per day for approximately seven weeks (see the appropriate Academic Calendar for the specific dates in a given academic year). Greek 201 and 202 are offered in traditional, non-intensive format during the fall and spring semesters, respectively.

MASTER OF THEOLOGICAL STUDIES

The Master of Theological Studies (M.T.S.) degree program is a two-year program for students who desire theological education but do not seek ordination. The purpose of the M.T.S. degree is to prepare students for further graduate study or to enhance training received in other fields. Church leaders (who may serve as elders, deacons, Bible study leaders, or church education teachers), Christian school teachers, and others serving in Christian ministry may wish to complement their training and experience with graduate-level theological education.

The M.T.S. program requires the same rigorous academic work as the M.Div. program but without the requirements associated with preaching and ministerial studies. The M.T.S. program offers flexibility by allowing students to concentrate in one of two areas: biblical concentration or historical/theological concentration.

The biblical concentration provides a thorough acquaintance with Hebrew and Greek language study, together with in-depth study of the canon, history, and interpretation of both Old and New Testaments. The concentration is filled out with course work in the ecclesiastical and doctrinal divisions of the curriculum.

The historical/theological concentration includes biblical language courses (Hebrew and Greek) and emphasizes systematic theology, church history, and apologetics.

The applicant for the M.T.S. program must be a dedicated Christian who has earned a Bachelor of Arts degree or its equivalent with a cumulative grade point average of 2.67 (B-) or higher. Pre-seminary education should ordinarily include work in English (including grammar and composition), philosophy (including a survey of ancient philosophy), natural sciences (2 courses), and social sciences (2 courses). An applicant whose academic history shows insufficient breadth in the liberal arts may be requested to do additional work as a condition of admission. For more information on the application process, see page 60. This process should be completed before May 1 of the first year of study.

GRADUATION REQUIREMENTS

A student must possess a cumulative grade point average of 2.67 (B-) or higher over the course of the Seminary program to receive the Master of Theological Studies (M.T.S.) degree. In order to obtain the M.T.S. degree, the total number of semester hours is 65.

The biblical concentration requires the following courses:

- All courses in the Biblical Studies division: 28 hours
- Biblical language courses: 15 hours
- Doctrinal and Ecclesiastical divisions courses: 18 hours
- One elective: 2 hours
- Capstone project: 2 hours
- TOTAL: 65 hours

The historical/theological concentration requires the following courses:

- All courses in the Doc./Ecc. division: 39 hours
- Biblical language courses: 15 hours
- Biblical Studies divisions courses: 9 hours
- Capstone project: 2 hours
- TOTAL: 65 hours

Before graduating, a student must meet all financial obligations to the Seminary or make suitable arrangements to meet them. No transcripts will be sent until financial obligations have been met.

A student must pass the Bible Knowledge examination during the first year of study. This written exam tests a student’s ability to work with biblical data. In a multiple-choice format, it determines the student’s knowledge of some detailed and specific information about biblical texts, geography, backgrounds, and people.

M.T.S. students must participate in an M.T.S. Student Working group once per semester that will involve discussion of topics relevant to the broader scope and goals of the M.T.S. program and, in particular, to matters related to the capstone project.

M.T.S. students must also successfully complete the capstone project.

CAPSTONE PROJECT
The capstone project is the culminating exercise for the Master of Theological Studies degree at Mid-America. Students have the option of one of two possible tracks:

RESEARCH-BASED CAPSTONE
The research-based capstone project is the culminating exercise for the M.T.S. degree at Mid-America. In this project, the student will answer a conceptual research question or a practical research question. Using the content and methodology learned during the course of study, students will offer a thesis and defend it through the presentation of research, analysis, and conclusions. This capstone aims to prepare students for further academic work in and/or contribution to their area of interest.

REFLECTION-BASED CAPSTONE
The reflection-based capstone project is a detailed engagement with, and intellectual reflection on, chosen degree content. In this project, the student will substantively recount (using lecture notes and assigned readings from coursework completed) and explore further (via additional data gathered through research) selections from what the student has learned in their course of study. For this capstone project, the student will define the chosen topic, situate it within its academic context, and then reflect on its formative significance for their chosen area of possible future service.

NON-DEGREE PROGRAMS

Non-degree programs are available for students who would like to pursue theological education but for a variety of reasons do not have the resources or desire to complete the extensive study required for the M.Div. or M.T.S. degrees. For these students, Mid-America offers abbreviated and individual programs of study that will allow the student to receive a certificate of education.

NON-DEGREE STUDENT

A person not enrolled in either the Master of Divinity program or the Master of Theological Studies program, and who is taking a course for credit, is classified as a non-degree student and is not required to meet entrance and course prerequisites for biblical studies. A non-degree student should contact the admissions office and complete the non-degree student application form.

AUDITORS

A person who does not wish to enroll as a degree or non-degree student may enroll as an auditor. Auditors must pay the stipulated fees, obtain written consent by the instructor, and may audit only courses for which there are adequate classroom facilities. An auditor should contact the Admissions Office and fill out the non-degree student application form. Students may not change from audit to credit after the semester deadline for changing courses. Permission and registration for auditing are to be obtained from the Registrar.

Audit fees (per hour):
- Alumnus: $30.00
- Regular: $100.00
- Student’s spouse: $15.00

Auditors are granted a certificate of completion for each course that they audit. When all the courses in one of the four main divisions have been audited, a divisional certificate of completion is granted. While having no official academic standing, such certificates serve to attest that the recipient has attended such courses and has been involved in continuing education. In some cases, such a testament serves to satisfy the continuing education requirements ecclesiastical bodies may have for office bearers or staff. Typical programs of study for a certificate of education are listed below. More narrowly focused certificates may be awarded upon request.

- Biblical Languages Certificate: 15 hours
- Biblical Studies Divisional Certificate: 28 hours
- Ecclesiastical Studies Divisional Certificate: 13 hours
- Doctrinal Studies Divisional Certificate: 26 hours
- Ministerial Studies Divisional Certificate: 21 hours

Ministerial Apprenticeship Program

Mid-America Reformed Seminary believes that mentoring should be part of all ministerial training. From the beginning of Mid-America’s existence, pairing the Master of Divinity student with an experienced pastor has been an integral aspect of the seminary’s training. Students participate in mentoring relationships not simply during the summer, but throughout their seminary career. Veteran ministers and their congregations partner with the seminary in preparing students to be pastors as well as preachers.

Program Description
Mid-America recognizes the necessity for practical experience in preparing a man for ministry. It also realizes that there is no better way for a student to gain that experience than by being paired with a veteran pastor in a mentoring relationship. This relationship between the seasoned pastor and the M.Div. student is the focus of the Ministerial Apprenticeship Program (MAP). This program allows the student to gain field experience throughout his seminary career. A Master of Divinity student automatically becomes part of the program upon his entrance to the Seminary.

Field education is a part of seminary training, but it is always closely connected to the life of the church. Students whose denominational requirements differ from, or go beyond, those of the MAP should ensure that necessary requirements are incorporated as much as possible into their field education.

The program is under the supervision of the MAP Director in consultation with other faculty members. Working with the student, the MAP Director helps to secure a minister to supervise the student’s fieldwork. The supervising minister should be a member of the Mid-America Reformed Seminary Association, if possible. Ordinarily the student will make the supervising pastor’s congregation his church home, and his relationship with the pastor and congregation will continue for the duration of the student’s seminary training. Any financial remuneration is incidental to the established purpose of the program.

The student’s work will be evaluated at designated times each year so that his competency in several areas may be tested and improved. The student, the pastor, and the faculty will meet at the end of the junior year to evaluate specific areas of growth in the student’s spiritual, personal, theological, and ministerial life. Near the end of the middler year, a consultation with the student is conducted in the presence of the faculty. The faculty helps the student determine his suitability for the ministry and counsels him with regard to his continuing studies. If necessary, the senior year concentrates on any areas that need improvement.

The following program requirements are to be met by the student and, except for the exhorting, they should be completed before the third year of seminary study:

1. Regular contact with the pastor, consistory or session, and congregation by the student during the first year of study in order to gain a broad acquaintance with the life and activities of the congregation. It is the responsibility of the student to see that his work is being supervised and regularly evaluated.

2. Involvement in the following areas of the work of the church:
   • Teaching a church school (catechism) class, or leading a society or Bible study;
   • Attendance at a specific number of meetings of consistory or session, diaconate, and classis or presbytery;
   • Direct contact with the evangelism program of the congregation;
   • Involvement in calling on the sick, shut-ins, and others needing pastoral care;
   • Exhorting in the worship services of the congregation and area congregations.

3. At least two summers of service in a congregation, either as student assistant to a pastor or in a vacant church—in which case the student will be supervised by a pastor in a neighboring congregation, whenever possible. Each summer assignment is to be at least ten weeks in length.

4. Whenever possible and desired by the student, some of the above and additional requirements may also be met by a pastoral internship of no less than ten months, normally between the middler and senior years of seminary studies.

5. In all cases of work, detailed evaluation will be periodically required from the supervising pastor, the student, and the consistory or session.

The number of unit credits (as stated below) will be given for each of these areas of involvement; the full number must be obtained to receive the Master of Divinity (M.Div.) degree.

PROGRAM IMPLEMENTATION

The Ministerial Apprenticeship Program is concerned with the spiritual, personal, theological, and ministerial development of seminary students in the following broad areas:

- Worship Leadership (especially preaching)
- Church Education
- Pastoral Care
- Church Government and Administration

The Program incorporates both course practica and work specifically assigned by the pastor and consistory or session. In this way, the Program integrates academic work and field experience.

All of the work, except for the exhorting, must ordinarily be completed by the third year of seminary study. The exhorting requirements can be completed in the last two years of seminary since licensure or permission to exhort is usually granted only at the end of the first year of seminary studies.

The frequency of meeting with the supervising pastor shall be at the discretion of both the pastor and the student. The student must take the initiative in seeing to it that such supervision is conducted. At least in the initial phases of the work, the supervising pastor shall review with the student such questions as the following:
What is the minister’s role in leading worship, in teaching catechism and/or leading societies, in congregational evangelism and witness to the community, in pastoral care and counseling (pastoral conversation), in leading and training the elders and deacons? What goals does the minister have in these various areas? How does he structure his use of time (for family, for congregational work, for ministerial growth and development, etc.)? What goals for study and reading does he have in order to facilitate such growth and development?

These areas need not be covered in one session but may be covered as the work progresses. To maximize benefit from the program, before the student teaches, goes on pastoral calls, or attends meetings, the supervising pastor should discuss the specific goals of such activities (“What do we want to accomplish?”). Following supervised activities, it is important to review what actually happened (“Were the goals met? Why or why not? What must happen next time?”).

In addition to the regular course assignments given in the division of Ministerial Studies, students who aspire to the gospel ministry are required to complete on-the-field assignments as outlined below. These must be performed, as much as possible, in consultation with the professor in charge of the prescribed courses and the student’s supervising pastor and consistory or session.

These practica will not be considered complete until all the proper report forms are filled out, handed in, and the student engages in reflection and evaluation with the supervising pastor and a faculty member. This will take place at the end of each academic year. Additional written work may be required at that time.

Since not all of these practica can in every instance be carried out during the time scheduled for the prescribed courses, final credit in each is not given until completion of the work and submission of the appropriate forms. It is expected, however, that as much as possible the two (class work and practica) be completed concurrently. Both the course practicum and any other MAP work are described below.
HOMILETICS PRACTICUM (one unit)
During the junior year, upon completion of at least one-half of the Preaching and Church Education Course, the student is to hear four sermons preached by four different preachers, and record text, theme, and divisions and write an evaluation of both structure and delivery, along with theological reflection on the significance of the sermon(s) in the context of the congregation’s life.

LITURGICS PRACTICUM (one unit)
In connection with the Public Worship Course, the student is to attend three different worship services in three different churches, noting carefully the “Order for Divine Worship” followed in each, and writing an evaluation of them in the light of Reformed liturgical principles and practice.

CHURCH EDUCATION PRACTICUM (one unit)
During the Preaching and Church Education course, the student is to engage in conversation with the pastor of the church to which he is assigned, to learn and evaluate the place, order, and curriculum of the church education program in that congregation. He is to teach a church school (catechism) class or lead the Bible study of a church society. In addition, the student is to visit two different classes taught by the pastor, if possible, and engage in theological reflection with the pastor. The pastor and/or a member of the consistory or session should observe his teaching.

PASTORAL CARE AND COUNSELING PRACTICUM (one unit)
In connection with the Pastoral Care and Counseling Course, the student, under the guidance of pastor, consistory or session, is to engage in a specific number of calls on families, youth, the sick, and the elderly. Ability to use Scripture appropriately and lead in prayer should be demonstrated and will be evaluated by the supervising pastor to aid in the development of pastoral skills. This pastoral work can also be conducted in the course of the summer assignments.

The student should also seek opportunities to observe and evaluate various diaconal agencies, organizations, and institutions of mercy that offer help to individuals and families in time of need. A list of assigned opportunities will be handed out at the beginning of the semester in which this course is taught. Student reports and written theological reflections are required.

EVANGELISM PRACTICUM (one unit)
In connection with the Missions and Evangelism Course, the student is to participate with the pastor in the work of evangelism (or with a neighboring pastor, if the student’s congregation is without a pastor). When the student does evangelistic work on his own, he is to submit written reports to his supervising pastor, which will serve as the basis for conversation and reflection between him and his supervising pastor.

CHURCH ADMINISTRATION PRACTICUM (one unit)
In the first year the student is to make contact with his supervising pastor and obtain permission to attend two consecutive meetings of the consistory or session as well as one diaconal meeting. The above are to be attended after a briefing by the pastor.

In connection with the Denominational History and Government as well as the Ecclesiology Courses, the student is also to attend two meetings of an area classis or presbytery, one of which should include the examination of a candidate for the gospel ministry if possible. Reports concerning these meetings (including the student’s theological reflection), written on the appropriate forms, are to be handed in and placed on file.

PRACTICE PREACHING PRACTICUM (one unit)
In addition to the sermons assigned for the practice preaching, the student is to keep a record of the congregations where and dates when he has exhorted, noting the texts and themes used. A faculty member may be able to evaluate an exhorting assignment during the year for each student.

During the second year of study, the student should lead at least eight worship services using at least six different sermons. During the third year of study, the student should lead at least twelve worship services using at least eight different sermons.
In addition to the required number of exhorting engagements, students are encouraged to accept as many opportunities to exhort as possible.

MAP CREDITS

Appropriate report forms for all apprenticeship activities can be obtained from the MAP Director. More information concerning supervision, consultation, and reporting is available at registration.

The required number of MAP credits is ten (10), of which eight (8) are for practica and two (2) are for summer assignments or intern work.

CREDIT FOR PRIOR WORK IN CHURCHES

Mid-America Reformed Seminary recognizes some students begin seminary studies with significant experience in a variety of capacities within their home congregations. This can include experience in church education, evangelism, youth work, pastoral visiting, and service as an elder or deacon. All of these may be very beneficial to the student’s preparation for the ordained ministry.

If a student with such experience can provide adequate description of his prior work, along with statements by his supervising pastor and/or elders that such work was conducted in an approved and satisfactory manner, Mid-America may credit such work and experience toward the respective practica that are included in the Ministerial Apprenticeship Program. No work completed prior to seminary enrollment, however, will be credited toward a summer field education assignment.

ACADEMIC REGULATIONS

ACCREDITATION
Mid-America Reformed Seminary is accredited by the Commission on Accrediting of the Association of Theological Schools (ATS) in the United States and Canada, and the following degree programs are approved:

- Master of Divinity
- Master of Theological Studies

The Commission contact information is: The Commission on Accrediting of the Association of Theological Schools in the United States and Canada, 10 Summit Park Drive, Pittsburgh, PA 15275, USA. Telephone: 412-788-6505. Fax: 412-788-6510. Website: www.ats.edu.

Mid-America Reformed Seminary was first accredited by the Transnational Association of Christian Colleges and Schools (TRACS) as a Category III (Masters degree-granting) institution on April 6, 2005. TRACS is recognized by the United States Department of Education and the Council for Higher Education Accreditation as a national accrediting body for Christian institutions, colleges, universities, and seminaries. TRACS is also a member of the International Network for Quality Assurance Agencies in Higher Education. Mid-America ended its relationship with TRACS in 2017.

REGISTRATION
All students are expected to register during the regular registration periods at the beginning of each semester. As a condition of registration, students are required to provide proof of adequate health insurance for themselves and their dependents. Late registration will entail a fee of $15 and is permitted before the tenth day of the semester only when sufficient reasons have been submitted to and accepted by the Registrar. A student is not considered fully registered until either the required amount of the semester’s charges has been paid or satisfactory arrangements with the Business Office have been made.

STUDENT STATUS AND COURSE LOAD

Students admitted to the Master of Divinity program will, upon the completion of the requisite hours, be classified as follows:

- 0-33 hours: Junior
- 34-66 hours: Middler
- 67+ hours: Senior

Students admitted to the Master of Theological Studies program will, upon the completion of the requisite hours, be classified as follows:

- 0-27 hours: Junior
- 27+ hours: Senior

Full-time students are those who take ten or more course hours per semester. Those who carry nine or fewer course hours per semester are classified as part-time students.

Classes are typically scheduled in the morning and early afternoon hours, permitting time for necessary class preparation, research, and reading. As a general guideline, two hours of study time are expected for every hour of class time.

DROPPING OR CHANGING COURSES

A student desiring to withdraw from a course, or to change enrollment, must have written permission from the Registrar. In general, students withdrawing from a course after the twenty-fifth day of the semester will receive an F for the course.

Students are permitted to change from one course to another before the tenth day of the semester.

WITHDRAWAL FROM THE SEMINARY

Students desiring to withdraw from the seminary before the end of a semester must notify the registrar in writing. For the policy on refunds, see that section in “Finances.” The failure of a student to remain registered as a full-time or part-time student will be considered an act of withdrawal. Should a student desire to resume studies after having withdrawn, he must reapply for admission to the seminary.

A report of semester grades is generally available fifteen days after the conclusion of the semester.

INCOMPLETE GRADE REQUEST POLICY
If extenuating circumstances (unusual and unavoidable circumstances which hinder completion of assigned work) prohibit a student from completing a course on time during the semester, a student may request a grade of Incomplete and an extension to complete the necessary work. A request for an Incomplete must be submitted to the professor by noon on the last day of classes of the semester in which the course in question is being taken.

To request such an extension:

- Fill out the request form available from the registrar and take it to the professor in charge of the course.
- The professor will then meet with the registrar and one other professor to discuss the request.
- If approval is granted, the student will be assigned a new deadline to complete all work, a maximum of four weeks from the last day of examinations.

- At the professor’s discretion the grade will or will not be reduced.

If an incomplete is granted, the student’s grade for the course will be “I” until the work is handed in and a grade assigned by the professor. If all work is not received by the new deadline, a failing grade will be assigned for that work. If the work that is still incomplete includes any of the course’s major requirements, a failing grade will be assigned for the course as a whole.

ACADEMIC PROBATION
Enrollment in the seminary program and continued progress in the curriculum require that a student maintain a cumulative grade point average of 2.67 (B-) or higher. Although a student who falls below this average will not be expelled, he will be put on academic probation for a maximum of two semesters. After that time, the possibility of continued study will be reviewed with the student and faculty.

INDIVIDUAL STUDIES SEMINAR
This curricular option offers senior students an opportunity for independent research. After discussing his interest with the appropriate faculty member, the student may submit a proposal by the end of the fall semester of his senior year. At the student’s initiative, the faculty supervisor will monitor the progress of this independent study in consultation with the student. The outcome is to be a substantial paper, following proper research methods and procedures, submitted to the faculty supervisor, with a summary presented orally to the student’s peers. Evaluation will be based on both written and oral presentations.

POLICY OF NONDISCRIMINATION
In accordance with the requirements of Title IX of the education amendments of 1972, Mid-America Reformed Seminary does not discriminate on the basis of gender in the educational programs or activities which it operates, including employment, except to the extent that the primary purpose of the Seminary, which is to prepare men for the ministry of the Word and sacraments, requires that discrimination on the basis of gender take place in admissions, recruitment, educational programs, and financial assistance.

ACCOMMODATION FOR DISABILITIES
The Seminary office works with the Dean of Students to assist disabled students who request accommodations. The office provides orientation to campus resources and recommendation for accommodation of the student’s disability. When medical verification is on file and the request for accommodation has been approved, a per semester academic accommodation plan may be developed in consultation with the student’s academic advisor. The office can also assist in requesting accommodations in housing and facilities. Physically challenged students are encouraged to request accommodation as early as possible in their planning process.

HEALTH INSURANCE
Students are required to show proof of medical insurance coverage for themselves and their dependents upon entrance to the Seminary. This proof should be submitted to the Business Office with the registration form.

AWARDS
At the closing chapel service of each year, the faculty honors selected seniors with awards for academic excellence. The awards and the criteria employed in their determination are listed below.

Biblical Studies Award: Highest combined scores on Hebrew and Greek comprehensive exams.

Doctrinal Studies Award: Highest GPA in the area of doctrinal studies.

Ecclesiastical Studies Award: Highest GPA in the area of ecclesiastical studies.

Ministerial Studies Award: Highest GPA in the area of ministerial studies.

Homiletics Award: Exhorting evaluation form marks and faculty evaluation.
APPLICATION PROCESS
Mid-America has a rolling admission policy. Applications will be reviewed once all materials are submitted. Students seeking admission for the fall semester should apply by May 1. Students seeking admission for the spring semester should apply by December 1. The following materials are required:

1. Application for admission
2. Medical questionnaire
3. Official transcripts from undergraduate and graduate work
4. Pastor’s reference
5. Academic reference
6. General reference
7. Ecclesiastical recommendation (M.Div. students only)
8. $40 application fee (fee is waived if application is received by February 1)
9. Current photograph (optional)
10. A personal interview with the Registrar is ordinarily required
The Seminary strives to facilitate a student’s transition from another seminary into the curriculum and program at Mid-America. Transcripts of previous seminary work and a catalog containing descriptions for those courses from the other institution must be presented to the Registrar prior to registration so that they may be evaluated individually. The Registrar may ask to examine course syllabi or other materials that demonstrate content and requirements for which transfer credit is requested. Credit transfers and program placement are always discussed with the student in an attempt to honor the work of other schools and be as flexible as possible. Master’s level course work that does not require the use of biblical languages will not be granted transfer credit toward any of Mid-America’s courses in the departments that require use of Hebrew and Greek.

Students seeking transfer credit from an unaccredited institution must supply a copy of the course syllabus and a sample of coursework for each course for which transfer credit is requested. Acceptance of transfer credit for one course from an unaccredited institution does not imply the acceptance of other courses from that institution.

Only courses with a grade of B or above will be considered for transfer credit. No transfer credit is granted for course work completed at the bachelor’s level. Competency exams are offered occasionally.

For students receiving educational benefits from the Department of Veterans Affairs, the seminary will initiate a review of transcripts of any master’s level work in order to determine which and how many credits partially fulfill Mid-America’s requirements. All transferable coursework will be accepted into the student’s Mid-America program. The registrar determines course equivalence on the basis of course descriptions, syllabi, prerequisites and requirements, and in consultation with the relevant instructors.
MASTER OF DIVINITY
At least 36 semester units of courses, taken over a period of two years at Mid-America are required of all candidates for the Master of Divinity degree. Although no transfer credit will be given for work which was previously used as a basis for a master’s degree from another institution, students holding a Master of Arts degree in biblical or theological studies or a Master of Arts in Religion degree from an accredited theological seminary may be granted advanced standing toward the Master of Divinity degree. Students who receive advanced standing must take at least 36 credits at Mid-America over a period of at least two academic years. If any Hebrew or Greek courses are needed, those will be in addition to the 36 credits needed for the M.Div. degree.

MASTER OF THEOLOGICAL STUDIES
Masters of Theological Studies students may transfer in up to 16 semester units.
INTERNATIONAL STUDENTS

Mid-America invites and welcomes applications from qualified persons around the world who desire to further their theological education. Since processing international applications involves several additional steps, applications should be submitted no later than six months prior to the desired entry date. International students are required to pursue a full course of study during normal enrollment periods (Fall, Interim and Spring).

Mid-America is a certified academic institution with the Student Exchange Visitor Information System (SEVIS).

ENGLISH LANGUAGE SKILLS

All prospective students for whom English is not their first language are required to take the Test of English as a Foreign Language (TOEFL). In keeping with general standards for graduate work in English, a total score of at least 550 on the PBT (Paper Based Test) or a total score of at least 79-80 on the iBT (Internet Based Test) is required for admission. For information on the administration of TOEFL, see www.toefl.org, or write Education Testing Service, Box 2971, Princeton, New Jersey 08541, U.S.A. The institution code for Mid-America is 7418.

FINANCES

International students must demonstrate adequate resources for financing their education by providing official bank statements or letters from sponsors. Acceptable demonstration of financial support for the first year of study must be submitted.

Most scholarships apply only to tuition and do not cover expenses such as housing, food, and books. Limited scholarships and aid are available for assistance with living expenses. All transportation costs are the responsibility of the applicant.
IMMUNIZATIONS
For the protection of everyone in the Mid-America community, current physician documentation is required for the following immunizations: infant series DPT (diphtheria, pertussis, tetanus), a tetanus booster (within the last 10 years), polio series, two MMRs (measles, mumps, and rubella), hepatitis B series (a series of three shots), chicken pox (anyone older than 12 who has not had chicken pox needs two doses of varicella vaccine; anyone younger than 12 who has not had chicken pox needs one dose), and a TB skin test. Also recommended are the meningitis vaccine and a seasonal flu shot.
FELLOWSHIP

Just as Mid-America Reformed Seminary seeks to glorify God by training godly students for the ministry of the Word, it seeks to glorify God in every part of its community life. That includes the student’s spiritual growth as well as the seminary’s community fellowship.

Mid-America recognizes its students come from various backgrounds and are at different stages in their lives. Some students have benefited from Reformed teaching since infancy; others are new to the Reformed faith. Some students are single and fresh from a pre-seminary program; others have families and years of work experience. Although different in many ways, students are united in their common purpose to preach the gospel of Christ.

While the student is being trained, the seminary ministers to each student’s unique situation and enfolds students and their families into the community at Mid-America Reformed Seminary. Part of the seminary’s ministry is regularly scheduled times for worship and edification. Another part of our ministry is to hold students accountable for their Christian life and walk. Every student is welcomed into the general seminary community, with special opportunities for students’ wives to become acquainted with other women of the seminary community.

MORNING CHAPEL

Since worship is a primary obligation as well as a great joy, the seminary prioritizes morning chapel services in the schedule. Chapel sessions include prayer, praise, and meditation on God’s Word. Faculty and students lead chapel on Tuesdays and Wednesdays, while area pastors or visiting speakers are invited to lead chapel on Fridays. On Thursdays, students meet in small groups with their faculty advisors for prayer.

The cafeteria, library, and administrative offices are not open to students during chapel (9:55 a.m.-10:20 a.m.) on Tuesday through Friday. Faculty and students who are present on campus are expected to attend chapel.

SPECIAL LECTURES
Both the Seminary community and the broader Seminary constituency benefit from special lectures. Distinguished scholars share insights from their areas of expertise relating to current theological issues. The Seminary community seeks to be informed and equipped regarding contemporary issues. In previous years, special lecturers have come from a variety of locations and institutions to speak on issues of theological interest.

- Dr. James H. Berry, D.O., associate professor and Vice Chair of the Department of Behavioral Medicine and Psychiatry at West Virginia University School of Medicine, spoke on understanding the insanity of addiction.
- Pastor Ron Citlau, pastor of Calvary Church in Orland Park, Illinois, spoke on ministering to those who battle with same-sex attraction.

STANDARDS OF CONDUCT
Students within Mid-America’s community should exhibit character traits that testify to their qualifications for Christian service. They should demonstrate servant leadership, wisdom, religious commitment, doctrinal reliability, and a willingness to serve without regard for personal gain. They should also be honest and self-disciplined, with evident emotional health that is expressed in an affirming and loving attitude toward others.

Part of belonging to a community means abiding by its principles. Students of Mid-America support and contribute to the spiritual life and testimony of the Seminary. A student’s conduct is expected to conform to the standards of Scripture. Some specific regulations and suggestions regarding conduct are detailed in the student handbook. The student’s signature on the application to Mid-America indicates willingness to comply with scriptural standards as interpreted by the Reformed Confessions regarding the Christian life, including the responsible use of Christian liberty. Students guilty of serious moral offenses are subject to dismissal from the Seminary with no tuition refund.

In addition to abiding by specific moral standards, students are expected to sustain an effective academic standard. Persons experiencing serious academic deficiencies over a period of time may be advised to discontinue their studies.

Mid-America recognizes that the rigor of seminary training requires divine grace for success and that a seminary education is not life’s ultimate goal. With this awareness, the Seminary encourages students to prioritize and exercise their responsibilities to God, family, and school.

COMMUNITY

Not only does Mid-America hold individual students accountable in their personal life, but the seminary also fosters fellowship and a sense of community among those associated with the seminary.

All students enrolled at the seminary are members of the Mid-America Student Association. As the vehicle for student government, the Association facilitates communication between the Seminary and the student body through effective exchanges of information. The Association may adopt special projects to advance the work of the seminary or Christ’s church in the world, but it focuses on seminary families. It practices the biblical model of “weeping with those who weep and rejoicing with those who rejoice” by extending messages of concern or congratulations when significant events occur in the lives of members of the Seminary community.

Community at Mid-America is strengthened in a number of other ways. The annual seminary retreat at the beginning of each academic year provides an opportunity for existing members of the seminary community to become reacquainted and encourages new students and spouses to be enfolded within that community.

The seminary is concerned that the family relationships of married students remain healthy. Mid-America recognizes that married students are not only called to prepare for future service, but they are also called to nourish their families. While seminary training may require some sacrifices, married students are encouraged not to sacrifice in the crucial area of family relationships.

SEMINARY WOMEN’S FELLOWSHIP
Preparation for a life of Christian service takes commitment on the part of a student’s spouse as well as the student. To help support women during the seminary years, the Seminary Women’s Fellowship has been formed. Students, spouses and staff members meet each month to hear various speakers, discuss relevant books, and enjoy informal times of Christian fellowship. Additional events—such as picnics, banquets, and Chicagoland field trips—are planned throughout the year. Faculty wives take an active interest in mentoring women by assisting in the coordination of this fellowship and its activities.

HOUSING
Although Mid-America does not offer on-campus housing, the Chicagoland area provides numerous housing opportunities near the Seminary. Prospective students may contact the Seminary office for a listing of available housing. The seminary staff and community are willing to help locate housing for students who are unable to visit the area prior to arriving for study.
The generous support of churches and individuals keeps the costs of attending Mid-America relatively low compared to other theological institutions. Financial aid, scholarships, and on-campus employment are also available for students to cover their expenses.

A student enrolled for GI Bill benefits will be refunded no more than ten percent from the exact pro rata portion of tuition, fees, and other charges of the completed portion of the program in relation to its total length. This refund will be paid within forty days after the student withdraws from the program.

FINANCIAL AID
Mid-America recognizes the financial pressures of full-time seminary study and does all it can to make such study as affordable as possible. Still, we recognize that there is a need for additional financial aid. Financial grants are available for qualified students. As part of the application for financial aid, the applicant must seek financial assistance first from his local church. Applications for aid can be found on the Seminary website. The application deadline is May 1. Applications received after May 1 will be considered at a reduced rate based on the availability of funds.

1. Submit a certificate of eligibility for entitlement to educational assistance no later than the first day of a course of education.
2. Submit a written request to use such entitlement.

4. Your policy may also require additional payment or impose a fee for the amount that is the difference between the amount of the student’s financial obligation and the amount of the VA education benefit disbursement.

Any covered individual may attend or participate in the course of education during the period beginning on the date on which the individual provides to the Seminary a certificate of eligibility for entitlement to educational assistance under Chapter 31 or 33 (a “certificate of eligibility” can also include a “Statement of Benefits” obtained from the Department of Veterans Affairs’ (VA) website e-Benefits, or a VAF 28-1905 form for chapter 31 authorization purposes) and ending on the earlier of the following dates:

The excellence of Mid-America’s academic education is augmented by the seminary’s resources. The library houses a comprehensive collection of theological material. In addition to an extensive bibliographic collection, the use of modern technology provides a large audio-visual library and permits access to off-site resources. Both students and members of the Seminary’s constituency benefit from Mid-America’s regular publications, The Messenger, the Mid-America Journal of Theology.

LIBRARY
The focal point of Mid-America’s attractive building is the sunny, spacious library. Its large windows and southern exposure brighten the open design. Comfortable seating and ample study space enhance the inviting atmosphere. The library’s essence, however, is its collection. Approximately 45,000 volumes provide a solid theological resource center. Books and periodicals are carefully selected to meet the Seminary’s standards for Reformed excellence. Online databases supply millions of serial records and, in many cases, full-text journal articles. In addition to on-site resources, students have access to the holdings of other libraries through interlibrary loan.

Students find the library a congenial place to study, with a friendly staff that facilitates use of library resources.

A special part of the library is the Reformed Heritage Collection. It contains monographs, periodicals, pamphlets, and brochures of particular interest to the Reformed researcher. Students seeking additional instruction or doing specialized research will also find valuable resources in the Seminary’s audio collection of sermons, speeches, and lectures.

BOOKSTORE
The Seminary’s bookstore is open to the public. The Bookstore offers books the faculty have written and translated, as well as back-issues of the Mid-America Journal of Theology, which are
PUBLICATIONS
Mid-America publishes a bimonthly newsletter, The Messenger, that is mailed to friends of the Seminary and supporting churches. The Messenger provides alumni and faculty updates, reports from the Board of Trustees and the Vice-President of Advancement, as well as a variety of news and information about the people and events associated with the Seminary.

An update in the form of an email, E-notes, is periodically sent to persons who request to be added to the mailing list.

The faculty publishes the Mid-America Journal of Theology (MAJT) annually, which is geared primarily for pastors and scholars, as well as the theological student. Dr. J. Mark Beach has been the managing editor of the MAJT since 1999. The MAJT typically includes an editor’s introduction, followed by articles on various theological topics. Articles that are smaller in size or of a more practical orientation are placed under a section entitled Notationes. Some issues also include a section entitled Homiletica et Homiliae, i.e., homiletics and sermons, which is designed to encourage a vital pulpit for the churches. Each issue of the MAJT presents an assortment of book reviews and short notices that examine contemporary theological discussion. The annual volume is available by subscription. Back issues of the journal are also available, as supplies last.
Mid-America’s curriculum aims at providing students with the skills necessary to become effective and sound Reformed ministers. The Seminary’s course work achieves this in two important ways: by practically applying academic knowledge to sermon preparation and by building a solid exegetical foundation before exposure to biblical criticism.

In the areas of dogmatics and exegesis, academic study and homiletical application are repeatedly integrated. This integration enables the student to translate his theological knowledge into the solid content and sound method of well-constructed sermons. In the area of biblical studies, the student becomes thoroughly acquainted with the principles of interpretation as well as the content of books of the Bible. Course work is carefully sequenced so that the student has a solid exegetical foundation before exposure to courses dealing with modern hermeneutical questions and attacks against the Bible. The heavy emphasis on exegesis of the biblical text equips students to interpret Scripture with independent skill.

The curriculum is arranged in four primary divisions: Biblical Studies, Ecclesiastical Studies, Doctrinal Studies, and Ministerial Studies. Each division has a Divisional Studies section, which contains courses taught by a team of professors. Each division also contains specialized departmental studies, such as Old and New Testament Studies in the Biblical Studies division or Historical Studies in the Ecclesiastical Studies division.

These studies can be differentiated by the two-letter prefixes identifying courses. In the Biblical Studies division, for example, BD indicates a Divisional Study course and OT indicates an Old Testament departmental course.

The three digits following the two-letter prefix indicate year, semester, and credit hours. The first digit signifies the year in which the student takes the course (1=junior, 2=middler, 3=senior). The second digit represents the semester (1=first semester, 2=interim, 3=second semester). Interim courses are generally offered for a three-week period in January.

The third digit specifies the number of credit hours (1-4) for that particular course. OT 313, therefore, indicates a divisional studies course taught in the Biblical Studies division to third year students, during the first semester, for three hours of credit.
